our studio

Our company designs hotel interiors based on the concept that each hotel should have its own unique identity and at the same time reflects the operator's image, market and location. We are experienced in thinking along with the completion of modern as well as classical concepts. This flexible approach makes it possible to design hotel interiors with an operators mind and with respect towards his guests.

We look at every project as a new challenge! We believe each hotel should be designed to entertain its guests. The continuously changing demands give us the energy to develop new concepts and atmospheres for long-term usage. We like to think we are in touch with reality which makes it possible to look ahead and design for the future.

interior project management

Our experience reflects itself in the creation of large scale interior projects regarding multi-function buildings such as hotels. interiorinput is known for its excellent interior project management skills. The company has developed a unique budget, specification and cost-monitoring system to control the entire process from the first scratches to the completion of each project. With this method interiorinput has successfully proven complex projects can be completed efficiently, within budget and without delay.

All co-ordination-, design- drawing- and specification-activities are done at the office. Together with the use of the latest drawing- and communication technologies interiorinput guaranties a superb, flexible design and smooth implementation process.

management profile

Erik van Groeningen

After having obtained a professional degree in Marketing, Presentation, design and Advertisement, Erik started his professional career at a turnkey contractor specialised in hotel interior design. At this company he worked for various privately owned hotels and international hotel groups such as S.A.S. and Golden Tulip.

In 1994 Erik obtained his bachelor degree with honours in Interior Architecture at the Utrecht Academy of Arts. In the same year he started working for Spies Architecture where he completed a large number of refurbishments, new-build hotels and other commercial interior projects. Erik designed for Hotel groups such as the Bilderberg Group (former Queens Moathouse), Mercure (Wagon Lits) Holyday Inn and Scandic Crown.

To obtain more international experience Erik left the continent in 1997 and started working for EAA International in London, Great Britain. As a project leader he has been responsible for refurbishment projects at the Hilton International Istanbul (Turkey), Hyatt Belgrade (former Yugoslavia) and the Carlton Tel Aviv (Israel).

In 2000 Erik started his own company interiorinput in the Netherlands. Build-up knowledge, contacts and satisfied clients enabled him to become a leading hotel interior design company in the Netherlands with an international touch. His personal interest in innovative hotel concepts and his capacity to think worldwide with a developer, an operator, and their guests made it possible to realise projects with an astonishing outcome. Projects such as the Hilton Royal Parc Hotel (the Netherlands), Sorat Spree Bogen Berlin (Germany), RoadStation (under development), Fletcher Hotels Huizen and Soest, Best Western Hotel Haarhuis Arnhem and numerous privately owned hotels in the Netherlands are examples of his knowledge, experience and excellent knowhow in designing cost-efficient hotel interiors with unique identities.
